1. Which were the three best abstractions, and why?

Abstraction html - The html object contains constant variables that select HTML DOM elements with specific data attribute values and makes them easily accessible

2. Which were the three worst abstractions, and why?

I don't see any worst abstraction, only if we should change all my code that lies at the bottom of my file that refers to my abstraction that's on top of my file

3. How can The three worst abstractions be improved via SOLID principles.

Putting my code in separate components
